“I had the opportunity to gain real-world experience before graduating. I went through the application process, secured a placement, and worked in a business environment. This experience helped me land a summer internship at Grant Thornton, which eventually led to a graduate role. Looking back, my proudest achievement isn't just my academic success, it's the relationships I built. I walked away with not just a degree but lifelong friends and professional connections. That network is something I will carry with me forever”.
